BURGLARS SHOOT YOUNG LADY.

FELL DEAD AT HER FATHER'S FEET.

When the House Was Entered the Owner Rushed Down and Grappled With the Burglars. This Awoke His Daughter Who on Coming Down Was Shot Dead--The Son Came in Turn and Was Knocked Senseless--Burglars Escaped.

By Wire to The Telegram.

Pittsfield, Mass., Aug. 20.—A little before two o'clock this morning three masked burglars entered the house occupied by Contractor Fosburg, of Buffalo, a contractor in Staileys Electric Co.'s building. Mr. Fosburg was the first one to awake, and hearing the burglars down stairs, ran down. In his attempt to grapple with them such noise was made that other members of the family were awakened.

Miss May Fosburg, twenty-four years of age, ran down stairs, and was instantly shot dead by one of the burglars. By this time Fosburg's son rushed upon the scene, and began struggling with the burglars, and was knocked senseless. The burglars then escaped. The police and a medical examiner were notified immediately. Four alarms were rung to arouse people, but so far the burglars have not been caught.

Mr. Stratford's Wheat Yield.

Mr. Emsley W. Stratford, who resides three miles south of town, broke the record this year in growing wheat. From 30 acres he harvested 633 bushels, an average of 21 1-10 bushels per acre. The wheat in 12 of these acres was damaged, or the yield would have been greater. One field of eight acres yielded him 253 bushels, an average of 31 5-8 bushels per acre.

It might be said in passing that this is the kind of farming that pays.

Muir's Chapel Camp Meeting.

The camp meeting at Muir's Chapel opened Saturday evening with a sermon by Rev. A. G. Kirkman. Yesterday morning at 11 o'clock Rev. L. W. Crawford, D. D., preached to a large congregation. Rev. W. C. Wilson, of Winston, preached last night.

In spite of the heat, a large number of Greensboro people were present yesterday morning and last night.

Superior Court in Session.

Superior court convened this morning at 10 o'clock, Judge W. A. Hoke presiding. His Honor got down to business at once, and after the grand jury had been selected and sworn in, delivered his charge, which was short, concise and to the point

Mr. A. S. Clark, of Oak Ridge, is foreman of the grand jury.

The docket was gone over this morning and a number of cases set for trial.

Rev. T. A. Smoot, of Greensboro Female College, delivered an address on "The Mind of Jesus" at the meeting of the Young Men's Christian Association in Winston yesterday afternoon.

REFORMATION HAS BEGUN.

A Noticeable Absence of Loafers From the Depot and Postoffice—The Aldermen Asked to Next Pay Their Attention to the Hog Pens.

The salutary effects of the action of the Board of Aldermen in prohibiting expectorating on the sidewalks and postoffice are already noticeable. Of course the ordinance was not intended to be enforced until the public could be sufficiently warned by publication, etc., but a number of those for whom it was intended have not waited for any official notification to cease their filthy habits or lounging propensities.

The beginning of the reformation was first noticed at the postoffice yesterday where a large number of loafers are usually gathered together. The coping surrounding the building, which is usually converted into a long, cushionless seat, was entirely free of humanity. Street Preacher Moore, who has been usually filling an engagement in front of the post office every Sabbath morning since the beginning of warm weather, failed to deliver his usual harangue, probably for the reason that there was no place for his congregation to sit.

At the depot there was also an absence of some familiar faces usually seen about train time. It was also noticeable that the negroes who are accustomed to roost on the iron railing surrounding the grass plat in the east end of the building had given up their perch.

The Board of Aldermen are generally commended for passing the ordinance, and the hope is freely expressed that it will be rigidly enforced. Some say that it would have been better had the aldermen relegated the hog pens to oblivion, or the suburbs at least, before looking after these other matters. The hope is expressed that the guardians of the city will yet see to it that hog pens which are a disgrace to the city and a menace to the health of the people, are forever removed from Greensboro. In no other way can the alderman gain more fully and cordially the thanks and everlasting gratitude of the people.

Citizens who are in favor of carrying out other salutary measures of the kind may speak out through the columns of The Telegram. Speak out and keep the ball rolling.

Lost a Good Horse.

Mr. Robert McNairy, who resides near the Battle Ground, lost a valuable horse Saturday evening. He brought a load of melons to Greensboro, and before disposing of them, one of the horses hitched to the wagon became sick, dying in a short while. The animal had colic, caused by eating wheat.

Mr. McNairy had refused an offer of $125 for the horse.

Revival Services at Westminster.

A revival meeting will be held in Westminster Presbyterian church next week, beginning Sunday. The pastor will be assisted by Rev. Lacy L. Little, a missionary to China, who is visiting relatives in this State.

Preparatory to these services, prayer meetings will be held in the church on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings at 8 o'clock.

Dr. Smith's Trip.

Rev. Dr. E. W. Smith will leave tonight for Atlantic City, where he will spend a few days recuperating. From there he will go to a number of Northern libraries to gather material to further aid him in studying "The Creed of Presbyterians."

At Atlantic City he will join his brother, Rev. Dr. S. M. Smith, of Columbia, S. C.

Claims to Have Been Robbed.

Bartlett Cecil, colored, claims to have been robbed of $2.50 about 9 o'clock this morning. He says he was passing along through Duplin when he was approached by three negroes, who demanded what money he had. One of them drew a pistol on him, while the other two went through his pockets.

A Sunday Marriage.

Mr. R. A. Kight and Mrs. Mollie M. Dean were married yesterday at the Queen City Hotel, of which the bride is proprietress. Justice Pritchett performed the ceremony, after which a nice dinner was served.

CHINESE VERY ANXIOUS TO SETTLE.

Makes a Statement Through Li Hung Chang That She Is Ready to Begin Negotiations Anywhere—Fighting Still Raging in Pekin and the Allies are Pouring Shot and Shell into the Forbidden City and Flames are Sweeping the City.

By Wire to The Telegram.

Washington, Aug. 20.—A Chefoo dispatch says that the allies have not yet completely conquered Pekin and fighting is still going on in the burninfi city, while the allies pour shot and shell into the forbidden city. Exploding shells set fire in different places and flames are sweeping a large part of the city.

The Chinese government through Li Hung Chang has made application to the United States for the appointment of Minister Conger, or some other American official, with authority to open negotiations for the establishment of peace, and fixing definite terms for settlement of the present trouble. The Chinese minister made application today to the State Department. He expressed his willingness to conduct the negotiations at any point desired by the the powers and expected this to be Pekin or Tien-Tsin. A similar proposition was made by Earl Li to the other powers.

THE CHILDREN'S VISIT.

The Telegram Office the Point of Pilgrimage for a Large Number of Interested Youngsters.

The Telegram office has this morning been the mecca of the Greensboro youngsters. Not only have their eyes turned this way, but they have come as well. The occasion was the drawing of the checks for the ten dollars distribution which The Telegram is giving for the interest and amusement of the children.

Some of the more adventurous and larger boys were on hand with their coupons before the office was opened at 7 o'clock. From then till 12 o'clock the stream kept up, and as each little boy or girl went out with their check they felt as important as a grown-up man feels over a fat bank account.

The check bears a number, this number corresponds to others which stand for pennies, dimes, quarters and dollars. When the bank opens tomorrow the boys and girls will drop in with their checks and have them cashed. The names of those who draw the biggest prizes will be published.

Every boy and girl who goes to the bank ought to open an account with it, and keep a bank account all the time.

Death From an Explosion.

Mrs. Lizzie Brannon, who resided in West Durham, was so severely injured by the explosion of an oil can about 7 o'clock last evening that she died early this morning. Her body was horribly burned.

She was about 70 years old and resided with her grandson, J. J. Burch, one of the superintendents in the Erwin Cotton Mills.

Mr. Thornton's Horse Runs.

While returning from the camp meeting at Muir's Chapel last night, a horse being driven by Mr. Frank Thornton became frightened and ran. Mr. Thornton jumped from the buggy and escaped injury. His companion, a Mr. Blalock, jumped a few minutes later and fell, suffering a few slight bruises.

Charged With Interfering With Labor.

A man by the name of Bell was arrested in Reidsville Saturday on a warrant charging him with trying to induce the operatives of the Edna Cotton Mills, of that place, to come to Greensboro and work in the Revolution Mills. He was bound over to court under a bond of $200.

ARRESTED IN ATLANTA.

Dr. Wilkinson and His Wife's Sister in the Toils—Both Talk Brazenly and Neither Has a Thought of Disgrace.

Atlanta, Aug. 18—Dr. Howard M. Wilkinson and Miss Josephine Packard, of Dover, Del., were placed in custody to-day, by the police officers of this city, at the request of the wife of Dr. Wilkinson, who is also Miss Packard's sister. The couple left Dover Saturday night and after a short stop in Charlotte came to Atlant where for several days detectives have been searching for them. Infatuation both on the part of Miss Packard and Dr. Wilkinson is the cause of the couple leaving their homes. In an interview to-day Dr. Wilkinson said:

"It was a case of love before marriage; however, not before my engagement to Nellie, my wife. I asked Josephine to marry me then, but she was so self-sacrificing she would not consent on her sister's account. We have been planning this elopement for a month past. Her parents knew of our great affection and my wife appealed to them to take steps to prevent our meeting.

"Say for me that I do not regret the step I have taken in the least. I thoroughly realize the sacrifice I have made. My stay in Dover depended on one of three things—my insanity, suicide, or divorce. So far as my business connections are concerned I surrendered my accounts to my attorney, R. H. Van Dyke, for the benefit of my creditors."

Miss Packard, a beautiful girl of 18, said: "Do I want to go back home? Why, of course not. Why should I have left, if I am now to turn cold, after a few days, and go back home. I realize fully the step I have taken. I know I have stolen away my sister's husband, I know what I have done. I do not want the pity or forgiveness of any one. All I want is to be left alone with him. That is all either of us wants."

DISTURBED THE SICK.

Street Preacher Moore Made a Nuisance of Himself and Was Jailed.

Street Preacher Moore, who has been posing for attention from the police officers for some time, got it today, when he was arrested and jailed for making a nuisance of himself. He took his stand on the court house square about noon and began to make the air hideous with loud noises, and when requsted to cease, talked more and louder.

Dr. Baum has a patient in the Southern Loan and Trust Company building who was disturbed by the noise, and the officers were requested to have it stopped. When Moore refused to listen to any request or suggestion, Chief Scott procured a warrant for his arrest and landed the shoemaker-preacher in jail.

At a hearing this afternoon Moore was sent to the roads for 30 days.

POWERS GUILTY.

Sentenced to Imprisonment for the Remainder of His Life.

Georgetown, Ky., Aug. 18—"We, the jury, find the defendant guilty, and fix his punishment at confinement in the penitentary for the rest of his natural life. "This was the wording of the verdict rendered to-day in the case of ex-Secretary of State, Caleb Powers, charged with being an accessory before the fact to the murder of William Goebet. The jury retired at 1:32 p. m., and returned its verdict at 2:25, having been out only 35 minutes. The vote in favor of a life sentence was unanimous. When the jury retired, the belief was general that its members would fail to agree, and in this opinion the defendant himself was firmly convinced.

Improvements on School Buildings.

Mr. C. W. Hoecker has been awarded the contract for making some improvements on two of the public school buildings of the city. The high school building (the old Catholic church) is to be remodelled and repainted, and a second story is to be added to the Percy street colored school building.

IN THE CHURCHES YESTERDAY.

SERMONS BY VISITING MINISTERS

Dr. Croxton Preaches Two In West Washington Street Church and Dr. Weaver Preaches in the First Presbyterian—Rev. Rossa A. Brown at Westminster—Good Congregations in Spite of the Disagreeable Weather.

In the place of the absent pastors three of the Greensboro pulpits were filled yesterday by visiting ministers. Rev. Rossa A. Brown, of Waycross, Ga., preached at the morning hour in Westminster Presbyterian; Rev. Dr. Rufus W. Weaver, pastor of the Middletown, Ohio, Baptist church, who is spending a short vacation with his mother's family here, filled the pulpit of the First Presbyterian in the morning, and Rev. Dr. A. M. Croxton, of Monroe, preached two sermons in West Washington Street Baptist church.

CHRIST AND LIFE'S MYSTERIES.

Dr. Weaver chose for his text: John 16; 12-13: "I have yet many things to say unto you, but ye cannot bear them now. Howbeit, when he, the Spirit of truth is come, he will guide you in all truth." Dr. Weaver said in part:

The older members of this congregation have no doubt observed a difference in the preaching of today and that of even twenty-five years ago. The ministers of the present hold to the same truths as their fathers. Then why this change? Every age has its peculiar temper and mode of thought. Ours has the sceptical spirit and the scientific method of enquiry. Ours is an age of doubt. The symbol of modern thought is the interrogation point. Reverence wanes for sacred things. There are blatant calls for the revision of creeds and the softening of the Bible doctrines. Science is boldly asking to scrutinize religious experiences and books are appearing upon "The Psychology of Conversion" and "The Relation of Religious and Sexual Phenomena." Turning away from the open door of faith, the devotees of reason are violently endeavoring to break into the Kingdom of God.

But this is not an age of atheism. Modern science has forever destroyed the argument of those who deny God's existence. The assaults upon Christianity are today in the form of interrogations: "Why did sin come into the world? Is every word of the Bible true? Can a good God condemn millions who have never heard of the Gospel to everlasting punishment? Are there not mistakes in the Bible?" These and a thousand more questions. The most comprehensive question is "Why does God surround us with mysteries seemingly only to confuse and perplex us?"

Mystery does not belong to religion alone. England's sweetest singer says:

"Flowers in a crannied wall,
I pluck you from the crannies
And hold you in my hand,
Little flower, if I could understand
What you are root and all and all in all,
I would know what God and man is."

There are mysteries in blades of grass, succulent weeds and yellow primroses that confuse and perplex us with problems as deep as those religion suggests.

Mystery is partial knowledge, and mysteries multiply as knowledge increases. Where the light of knowledge begins to fade away into darkness and we dimly see, there is the realm of mystery. As the radius of knowledge increases, we increase threefold the surrounding penumbral band of mystery. The wisest man is he who stands face to face with the greatest number of unsolved problems and who is most kenly conscious of the narrow limits of his knowledge and the brilliant reach of his ignorance.

What does God say regarding the mysteries of life? In the book of Job He gives His answer. In the whirlwind He speaks to five enquiring minds, seeking to solve the problem of human suffering. In thunder-clap sentences He answers them by piling problem upon problem, question upon question, mystery upon mystery. He points out the mystery of the frost, the rain, the snow and the sea; the mystery of instinct in the cony, the ostrich, the eagle, and the warhorse. God's answer to one problem is that the whole universe is an unfathomed mystery wherein the meanest flower that blows as well as the tragedy of human life bring thoughts too deep for tears.

What is Christ's attitude toward mystery? It is given in the text: "I have many things to say unto you but ye cannot bear them now. Howbeit when the Spirit of truth is come He will guide you into all truth."

These words were spoken the night before the trial and crucifixion of the Savior. Incidentally they threw much light upon Christ's attitude toward mystery. Two facts are definitely stated: 1. It is for the good of His followers that He keeps back the explanations of problems that confuse their minds. "I have many things to say unto you, but ye cannot hear them now." 2. Blessings result from this condition: "Howbeit, where he, the Spirit of Truth, is come he will guide you into all truth."

The speaker then discussed at length mystery as a necessity to 1. Faith; 2 Struggle; 3. Growth, showing that the elimination of mystery from human life would render faith, struggle and growth impossible.

After portraying the blessings that grow out of Christian faith, Christian struggle and Christian growth, he concluded the sermon with a description of the world as an island in a sea of mysteries.

The master minds in every age gave utterance to the hope that beyond the sea was a better land, but it was only a hope. No ship that passed beyond the horizon's rim ever returned. The seers of every land claimed that words were whispered to them on evening breezes, but they were broken words. It was the prophets of Israel who spoke in clearest tones. Returning from mountain heights or desert solitudes, they declared the word of Jehovah that had become unto them. There were vague descriptions in their prophecies of the better land; but life and immortality had not yet been brought to light.

One day long ago a Galilean peasant with glowing face cried out as he replied to the woman's vague hope: "I know that when Messias comes, he will tell us all things," "I that speak to thee am He." Through three years by seaside, on the public highway and in synagogue and temple He taught regarding the eternal life and the life of higher activities into which His followers should enter through the gateway of death. During the eighteen centuries and more that have followed, there have been millions in every generation who have believed the words of the Galilean teacher, who have turned their gaze from the sea of mystery and have taken up their daily duties with joy, knowing that all things even mysteries were working together for their good. To this company of the faithful you and I belong.

Some day, soon or late, the summons will come that in the harbor your ship awaits. Its sails are set; its anchor lifted. Reluctant you may be to go, but go you must. Friends stretch out detaining hands in vain. No companions will join you, you go alone. It is the ship of death that awaits you. Outside the harbor is the bar. May Tennyson's precious hope and prayer be yours.

"Twilight and evening star.
And one clear call for me,
And may there be no moaning of the bar
When I put out to sea.

But such a tide as moving seems asleep,
Too full for sound or foam,
When that which drew from out the boundless deep,
Turns again home.

Twilight and evening bell,
And after that the dark,
And there may be no sadness of farewell,
When I embark.

From out the bourn of time and space,
The flood may bear me far,
But I hope to meet my Pilot face to face,
When I have crossed the bar.

REV. DR. CROXTON'S SERMON.

Dr. Croxton preached in the forenoon on the lessons drawn from the thief on the cross. At the evening service he selected as his text, "Moses wist not that the skin of his face shone, while he talked with him," Exodus 34:29; "And Samson wist not that the Lord had departed from him." Judges 16:20. In part, he said:

In descriptions of a sunset at sea, travelers tell us that the waves facing toward the west, reflect a fiery gold; and that the waves facing toward the east reflect a dead green. This is true of human character. The life that has its tendencies all set toward God, is radiant and beautiful and noble; but the life that has its tendencies toward the world, is robbed of all its beauty and nobleness.

The recurrence of the same phrase in such opposite connections is striking indeed. Moses, fresh from the mount of vision, where he has been talking face to face with God, comes back radiant, his face shines with the lustre caught from beholding the Divine presence; and he is unconscious of the radiance, but it is visible to the beholders; so is the highest excellence of character—unconscious excellence is the highest excellence.

Samson, fresh from his debauch and coarse carousal with Delilah, comes forth shorne of his locks, and when he tries his accustomed feats he finds that his strength has left him; his strength has unconsciously departed because the Lord has left him, and the Lord has left him because in his coarse animalism he has left the Lord.

These two incidents, taken together, may teach us some very practical and important lessons, the first of which is that beauty and strength of character come from communion with God. In both of the cases with which we are dealing, the beauty of Moses' face and the strength of Samson's arm, are merely a material sort, yet they are types of the higher and nobler kind, emblems of the beauty and strength of character; and they teach us also the condition upon which the loftier and nobler excellence of character may be attained, viz: by communion with God; and that when this communion with God is broken they depart.

Moses teaches us that the loftiest beauty of character comes from communion and talking with God. Paul in 2d Cor., 3d, seizes upon this incident and uses it to show how every Christian, with unveiled face, is to reflect the glory of God. All perfecting of Christian character is almost exclusively confined to this law of transformation by beholding. Look at Christ until you are like him; and beholding Him, be changed into His image. Some of our popular novelists—Dickens and Hawthorne for instance, have very forcibly and beautifully set forth the architectural, the transforming power of thought upon human character. "Show me a man's company, and I will tell you his character." People will grow into the character of the object of their worship. Contemplation, which is desire and longing and adoration, will impart the character of the worshipped to the worshiper.

If you want therefore, to be ridden of your selfishness and deformity of character, turn to Jesus Christ and open the doors and windows of your soul to Him and He will pour His loveliness into your life and heart. Then, again, the bearer of this radiance is unconscious of it. "Moses wist not that the skin of his face shone." The consummate apex and crowning charm of excellence is unconscious excellence. When a man becomes conscious of his excellence he begins to lose much of the attractiveness and beauty of that charm. When a man fancies that he is good, he begins to be bad. When a student comes to pride himself on his attainments and thinks he is smart, then he grows foolish. The beautiful young lady who flatters herself that she is charming and attractive, loses much of her charming qualities through her conceit. Let us learn the broad and practical lesson of losing ourselves in Jesus Christ. If our self-oblivion can be taken up with thoughts of Christ, we will be far more likely to develop beauty of character than by any method of self regard. The rope-walker will be less likely to fall by looking straight ahead at the goal than by looking down at his toes and the gulf beneath. So let us look at Christ—"looking away unto Jesus."

Think constantly and lovingly at the unattained. Discontent and dissatisfaction with our present attainments is the condition of making higher attainments. People in the valley below us may see our figures against the skyline on the mountains above and think that we are at the summit; but we, up on the mountain side, can more clearly see the inviting splendors yet above us.

Cultivate a vivid, real sense of personal imperfections and then, finally the strong man made weak is all unconcious of his weakness. By its very nature, all evil tends to weaken character by sin and neglecting conscience. People in a crowded room are unconscious of the vitiated condition of the atmosphere, but a man from the open air soon discovers its poison.

It is easy to manage leaves and fruits, but when the heart of the tree begins to rot out, the tree is doomed.

Frostbitten limbs are said to feel comfortable, but when circulation begins to set in, pain is felt. So many of us are only in morally and spirituly a frostbitten condition.

Two things tell what a man is. What he does and the tendencies of his desires. Where do you find your pleasures and delights? in sin or in God's service?

REV. MR. BROWN'S SERMON.

Rev. Rossa A. Brown, of Waycross, Ga., who, with his wife, is visiting relatives here, occupied the pulpit of Westminster church yesterday morning. He preached a most acceptable sermon, full of gospel truth and power, and was listened to by a good congregation. Mr. Brown is a son of this church and the members of the congregation all feel a pride in him We are unable to get an extended report of his sermon.

INDUSTRY FOR THE WEEK.

Silk Mill for Raleigh, Furniture Factory at Kernersville—Million Dollar Cotton Mills File Notice--Greensboro Bonds.

Correspondence of The Telegram.

Charlotte, Aug. 20.—Among the new industrial enterprises in the Carolinas for the past week, are a new cotton mill at Zirconia, N. C., and a silk mill which will probably be started at Raleigh. Other minor developments are a big furniture factory at Kernersville, N. C., two oil mills at Wadesboro, N. C., a furniture factory at Thomasville, N. C., known as the Cramer Furniture Company, also the Sutro cotton mill which recently closed down at Yorkville, S. C., will be reorganized with a capital stock of $50,000.

The million dollar Lancaster, S. C., cotton mills have formally filed notice of their increase of capital stock by the sum of $75,000 giving the above total.

W. A. Harris and others of Greenville, S. C., have organized the Harris Train Signal Co , with a capital of $22,000; also the Greenville Drug Co. with a capital of $35,000 has been organized.

Among the bond issues for the week are: Spartanburg, S. C., for street paving, and Greensboro $165,000 thus completing the $300,000 issues of 1899.

Probably the largest contract of the week is that for developing a water power in Rutherford county, N. C., and the building of a 65,000 spindle mill. R. R. Hayes is president of this big enterprise. The contract went to Ladshaw & Ladshaw, of Spartanburg, S. C.

The survey of the Cape Fear river in accordance with a recent act of Congress has begun.

The new Shelby, N. C , cotton mills started to work on the 14th, with 3,000 spindles and 175 looms. The $125,000 Alpine cotton mills No. 2. at Morganton, N. C. are being rapidly pushed to completion.

He Left Kiang Yen, China, on the 23rd of June--His Life Was Threatened.

Dr. and Mrs. Geo. C. Worth, and children are at the Buford on their way to Wilmington. They will rest in Charlotte to-day. Five years ago Dr. Worth went to Kiang Yen, a point 150 miles from Shanghai, China, as a medical missionary, under the protection of the Southern Presbyterian Church. Dr. Worth, in speaking of his departure for China to an Observer representative, last night, said:

"I left Kiang Yen on the 23rd day of June and went to Shang Nai, where I remained a few days before leaving for Japan. Rev. Lacy Little, of Anson county, who was at Kiang Yen, had come home on a vacation before we left. There were but three foreign families in the town. Just before I left the town hoodlums and toughs, mainly men who had belonged to the Chinese army, began to threaten the foreigners. They threatened to burn my home and kill my family. I heard a man yell out on the streets one day words to this effect: 'We will burn him up.' He was speaking of me.

"Near my home some Chinese forts were located. I often practiced on the soldiers. They liked me and were willing to aid me in any way. The day on which I left for Shanghai, I was escorted away from Kiang Yen, by a detachment of Chinese soldiers, who at that time were friendly.

"We did not have any thrilling experiences. We left early and went unmolested.

"Christians are supposed to be members of a society by Chinamen and all foreigners belong to it. The outbreak in China is caused by the Chinese hatred of foreigners. The lower classes are ready for any opportunity to butcher foreigners."

MONDAY AUGUST 20, 1900.

WELCOME TO THE ARGUMENT.

It is but natural that a man should put forth the best argument he is capable of making in support of his position. In reply to the position The Telegram took after the election that, now, that the amendment is carried, and in consideration of the good behavior of the colored people, and the further fact that everybody understood that the result we are about to mention should take place, the campaign against the negro should not be extended further, the News and Observer, the chief exponent of the other view, classed us as a secret McKinley organ, suddenly converted to the position. In reply to this unjust criticism of our position we took the trouble to show up the News and Observer's position on white supremacy; how when we actually had negro domination in 1896 it refused to fight it, and in 1898 when we still had it, it sought an alliance with the man who made it possible, and how further, in 1900, it proposes to politically damn every one who does not wish to carry the disturbing agitation further after it becomes unnecessary. In reply to our review of its record the News and Observer was able only to make this reply:

The Southern Railway organ, the Morning Boast, has interviewed E. A. Johnson, (colored), Assistant United States District Attorney, who vigorously opposes any mention of negro Federal office-holders. Counting Johnson and the editor of the Greensboro Telegram, this makes nine, all except two being Republicans or bolters.

Of course if the News and Observer could have denied, with any prospect of gaining credence, our charges as to its course of conduct, it would have readily done so, but after waiting two days and squirming under the exact truthfulness of the charges, as the article was copied into the press of the State, it came up on the second day with the above answer. This does not disturb us in the least, nor will it go an ell towards mitigating the odium attached to the News and Observer as it smarts under the unanswered and well established charge of insincerity in its present position, and the most abject bootlicking in its actions during the past four years on this very question. The contumely under which it rests will never be relieved by its course of classifying its opponents with negroes, and attributing mercenary motives to the papers and the great number of North Carolinians who stand with these papers on this question. Such speaks volumes for the weakness of its cause as well as for the unhealthy, to say the least, condition of mind of the News and Observer. The News and Observer is perfectly welcome to classify us with any negro if it chooses. The important thing is that this does not give anybody any trouble any more.

In its morning edition of August 3d, The Telegram spoke of the results of the election of the day before as follows:

It was a great day for North Carolina. The people have spoken in unmistakable tones. It was, too, the voice of the white people. They have said, and will never have to eat their words, that negro rule administered by scalawags and Butlerism and Holtonism are dead in North Carolina. Their rule has been the worst possible. It was simply the worst element of society ruling the better. And when this happens the tale is too well known to be repeated here. It was a wonderful and unusual series of mishaps that put the State in that condition; and the work begun in 1898 and so magnificently completed yesterday was but the inevitable return to the natural conditions of things.

It was not a party victory; it was a victory for society in its right to perpetuate itself in stability and tranquility. It was not a victory over the negro, but one in his behalf. Thinking people have not fought the fight in enmity to him. To do so would have been unworthy of the superior race. The peace and quiet which reigned yesterday throughout the entire State is an earnest of that tranquility that the day's work inaugurates.

What we said then we say now, and more. There is not another State election before the amendment goes into effect. We have declared to the world that we made our campaign upon the color line because it was necessary to preserve our State. Its safety is now assured. Is it Cristian, is it worthy a strong race, to continue a warfare upon a weak and helpless people after they have submitted, and further warfare is unnecessary? We have had letters from colored men, educated, peacable, and truthful men who did not vote against the amendment when they were at perfect liberty to do so; in these letters they express their disappointment and their humiliation that their race should now, in its ignorance, weakness and submissiveness, be made the object of further attack simply because some dozen of their race happen to hold offices to which they were appointed before the people of the State so emphatically expressed their disapproval. The Telegram is, and has ever been, more loyal to the cause of white supremacy than the News and Observer has. We now object simply to placing unnecessary humiliation upon a weaker race who are now sufficiently punished. The News and Observer cannot understand why any one should be actuated by other than selfish motives, and hence calls The Telegram and the other papers that dare defy it, all manner of names.

One week ago tonight Col. A. M. Waddell, whose services for white supremacy are better known than even the News and Observer's fawning on whatever happens to be uppermost at the time, made a speech, taking the same position that the papers agreeing with The Telegram in this matter took. Does the News and Observer classify Col. Waddell as a tool of the Southern Railway, a McKinley sympathizer, or a companion of the negro Johnson?

The cringing soul of the News and Observer is too small to understand an argument pitched upon the grounds of humanity, justice and forbearance.

Attention H. and L. and Eagles.

The members of the Hook and Ladder Company and the Eagle Hose Company are requested to meet at the Record office tonight at 8:30 o'clock sharp. Business of importance. Be on hand.

Secretary of State Porter, of Nebraska, has decided free silver Republicans and middle-of-the-road Populists may have a place on the official State ballot this fall under the names quoted.

Two and Four.

"Two?" demanded the peremptory conductor as he took a quarter from the woman who had just struggled to a place on the trolley.

"No, four," she replied.

Four fares were rung sharply, and the conductor handed back 5 cents.

"That isn't right!" exclaimed the woman indignantly.

"You said you wanted to pay for four," retorted the trolley employee.

"I didn't," denied the woman. "You asked if my little boy was 2 years old, and I said no, he was 4. I suppose I'll have to pay for him if it's the rule, but I don't think it's right"—

The remainder of the sentence was lost in the discords that issued from the throat of the enraged conductor, who thrust ten pennies into the outstretched hand and retired to the rear platform to relieve his feelings more fully by refusing to stop the car for any one for ten blocks.—New York

This cut represents a Home Savings Bank safe. The little safes are oxidized and coppered steel boxes 4 by 3 3 by 2 inches in size, with three tumbler lock and made to resist great force.

The Southern Loan and Trust Company has arranged to loan them free of charge to any person desiridg to open a savings account.

Money deposited in these safes can be taken ont only at our office (where the keys are kept) and when brought to us the amount is counted in your presence and placed to your credet on your pass book. 4 per cent interest, beginning the first day of any month succeeding the deposit, will be allowed on all deposits amounting to $5.00 and upwards provided they are continued for three full months.

ITS ADVANTAGES: You have in your home a bank always open for deposits. You can drop in small amounts you would not take to any bank, thus preventing you from spending it; as money kept loosely near at hand affords a continuous temptation to waste it. You cannot shake or get it out, as we hold the key; consequently do what you ought to, bring or send the bank to us, have its contents counted before you and placed to your credit with us, where it will be a continual reminder to you to add more to it. Many persons waste in life enough money to make them independent. DEPOSITORS WILL PLEASE NOTICE that any sums of money that they may not wish to deposit in the small bank safe may be brought to the office of the Trust Company and deposited on their pass books the same as on any ordinary savings account.

☛Money deposited on or before September 1st, bears interest from that date.

is where we stand in the lumber business. At the kicking post, as it were, in regard to prices.

First comes the owner of the timber. He just woke up to the value of it and wants double last year's prices. Then the sawmill man. He has not been making a fortune and thinks now he should share a little in the general prosperity

They say to us: "We must have so much for our trees and work." After a while it is "up to you." Don't kick. You don't suppose we have nerve enough to put up prices unless they had first been put up on us. No, indeed. But prices are NOT high. They have been to low and are just now getting reasonable. Your children will be glad to build at double the price it now costs you. It is a trite, but true saying, if you want to build, "Now is the time."

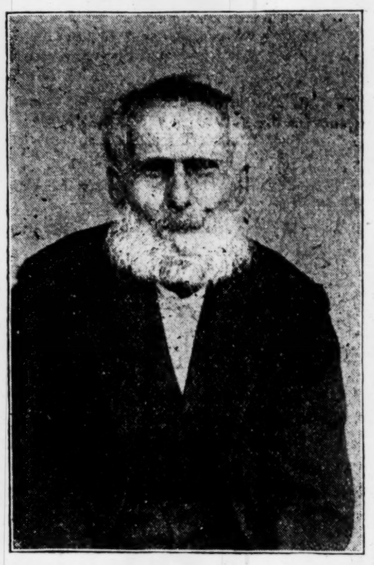
HIGH POINT CENTENARIAN.

Richard Green Kidd Will Celebrate His 100th Birthday this Week.

The High Point Enterprise says: "There are few people who live to be one hundred years old and still fewer who have the privilege of living in three centuries. This almost the case of Green Kidd, who lives at his quiet home about a mile and a half from High Point, and the chances are in favor for bringing about this wonderful record.

Two weeks ago the Enterprise, in company with Uncle Bob Bell and Mr. D. L. Clark went out to call on Mr. Kidd. We found him in bed but feeling fairly well. He is a little hard of hearing, but aside from this his condition is very good for one of his age. He was very much pleased at our visit and readily consented to get up and have Mr. Clark take his photograph, a reproduction of which is here given. Mr. Kidd talks freely, especially about his age.



MR. GREEN KIDD. HIGH POINT'S CENTENARIAN.

Richard Green Kidd was born in Petersburg, Va, August 23rd, 1800 He has been married twice, the last time in 1866. His second wife is still living. Mr. Kidd has not been strong enough to walk alone for three years on account of a fall he had. His mind is clear and he knows the features and voices of his friends, and says whether day or night he awaits the coming of the Lord.

WHEN TO ADVERTISE.

There are business establishments which cut down their advertising in dull seasons. Others follow the course of a successful merchant, who says: "When trade falls below its normal activity I either increase my advertising or else enliven it with special offers. In dull times, as in busy, there is patronage to be gained by advertising, and I want it most when business is slack. A small gain then is as grateful as a larger one when trade is brisk."

The Speaker's Stand for Wednesday—Ceremonies About Complete.

Special Correspondence of The Telegram.

Raleigh, N. C., Aug. 19.—The topic that seems to be requiring much space in the columns of the Raleigh News and Observer just at present, is Editor Josephus Daniels on Editor J. W. Bailey, of the Biblical Recorder. Editor Bailey got on his dignity in his reply to the first attack. Editor Daniels quotes from back editorials in Biblical Recorder. There are not a few who would like this quarrel to be another kilkenny cat affair. Whether the negro is "to be or not to be" an issue in the national campaign is the subject of dispute.

Mr. Edward W. Pou, solicitor of the Fourth district announces himself as a candidate for congress from this district. There are now four candidates in the field—Capt. W. B. Shaw, of Vance, Congressman Atwater, of Chatham, Frank S. Spruill, of Franklin, and Edward W. Pou, of Johnston.

Stock is rapidly being taken for a $10,000 wholesale and retail shoe store here. Such a store is badly needed.

Booker Washington has called a meeting of his race to be held in Boston, looking to the encouragement of industrial education and enterprises among the negroes of the South. E. A. Johnson, a colored lawyer of this city, leaves tomorrow to attend the conference.

The speakers' stand for the unveiling ceremonies on Wednesday, the 22nd, is about completed. It will hold 300, and is built as a continuation of the east portico. The upper portico is reserved for Governor Russell and his specially invited guests. There will be some eight or ten military companies in the parade. There will be no mounted men or vehicles allowed in the parade. Another rain is all that will be needed to make the weather perfect. The capital grounds are densely shaded so that people need not be in the hot sun. Ladies will serve lunches on the postoffice lawn so there will be no need for any one to go hungry.

Something Our Customers Can Do

It is our endeavor to conduct our store in a manner that will meet the approval of all. If at any time you do not receive satisfactory service, or the goods purchased are not of the quality expected, we will be under many obligations if you will come to us personally and inform us plainly. We assure you will not need to make a like complaint again. We want to do all in power to give you the best service it is possible for you to obtain anywhere.

Water Finds Its Level

Those who live in truth are attracted by truth. Hence the overwhelming patronage which we receive is due to our plain statement of facts, and this will always appeal with greater force than any thing else; and, too, we never disappoint, we have what we advertise and call things by their right name.

TAKE OUR EVERY-DAY PRICES:

why, with all the wiggling and twisting there is no house in the country that can begin to match them, and we don't make a big fuss over them, either; simply go quietly along and saw wood just the same, feeling that it will come out all right in the wash. Being the "originators" of this low priced system we are regarded as the "basis" of comparison—leaders, so to speak. We don't wonder at it either, for we never plant our flag of low prices in any city and pull it down. Take our record in Charlotte, Greensboro, Monroe and Union, S. C.,, and all must admit that we are doing the business in each of these places, employing from 150 to 200 salesmen is no small thing, and look at the enormous purchases we must make. Frequently we take the entire output of factory after factory. In this way we get the inside prices. Now, as the fall season will soon be on hand, we have made special reductions in all departments in order to make room. Big bargains in dress goods, shoes, clothing, straw hats, gents furnishings, etc.

Shop Newly Equipped

I have just completed equipping my shop with power and machinery for doing all classes of repair and new work. I am now amply prepared for doing heavy wood work, and also heavy forging. When in need of any kind of repairs very often the time saved by having it done promptly will pay for the same; and besides machinery does work better and cheaper than muscle.

I am now prepared to build on short notice any kind of a wagon you may want—a heavy dray, light spring wagon, or a farm wagon.

VACATION NOTES.

To the Editor of the Telegram:

"Where will you spend your vacation," was frequently asked me before I left Greensboro. Perhaps a few notes from this part of the moral vineyard may be of interest to some of the Telegram's readers.

I am at my old home in Scotland county. A little more than a century ago a colony of Scotch people settled in upper Robeson and lower Richmond. The town of Maxton, in upper Robeson, is, being interpreted, Mac's town, because of the many Macs that live in and around it. Laurinburg gets its name from its first merchant, Mr. J. C. McLaurin.

Scotland is the youngest county in the State. It was formed by the last legislature out of four townships in lower Richmond. Laurinburg is the county seat. The new county has just elected its first officers and will set up business on its own account the first of December.

This is a great cotton section. It is said that Scotland produces more cotton, according to the acreage, than any other county in the South. The low price of the fleecy staple for the last few years has caused a density in farm products. Tobacco is now being raised, and from their success so far the farmers of Scotland bid fair to rival those of the Piedmont section in producing the weed.

There is no dispensary, no saloon and no distillery in Scotland county. I am informed that a blind tiger can no more live in Scotland than a snake can in Ireland.

Some years ago a government distillery was set up in Scotland, but the sentiment was so strong against it, the proprietor thought it healthier to leave. I am in the eastern part of Scotland county, a few hundred yards from the Robeson line. Two miles west of here, in a beautiful grove, is Spring Hill church. Near the church is the academy, where for two or three generations a school has been kept up largely by subscription, from five to ten months in the year.

Near the Academy stands the beautiful little brick hall in which the "Richmond Temperance and Literary Society" has held its meetings every other Saturday afternoon, for nearly 50 years. To this trinity, religion, education and temperance, as represented by these three buildings on the hill, is due the morality and intelligence of this community.

There is no place that I have yet found where I can rest so well as at this old home of my childhood. The farm lies on the banks of Lumber River. To one who was reared on the banks of this river, there is no other just like it. It's waters are clear, it's bottom sandy, and from it's dark, deep cover multitudes of fish have been drawn in years gone by.

I spend the time fishing and bathing, eating and sleeping.

With a good bath early in the morning and late in the afternoon, and watermelons and peaches between times, one can keep cool even with the themometer hovering around a hundred. LIVINGSTON JOHNSON.

GROWTH OF LANGUAGE.

Words Once Tabooed Are Likely to Become Suddenly Popular.

Language is being made so fast in these days that it is unsafe for purists to formulate lists of words that are unfit for polite use. A writer in the London Academy contends that many words rejected of the purists are really rough hewn stones that are necessary to fill crevices in the language and that the critic who would exclude them is ignorant of his calling. William Cullen Bryant's long list, published many years ago and widely consulted ever since, The Academy critic objects to as a bag filled with bones of contention and liable to rattle whenever it is touched.

The difficulty seems to be that while any reputable list of this kind is pretty sure to be authoritative in part evidence of use of forbidden words by some great author or some author of growing fame is likely to crop up at any time and put the seal of respectability upon any mongrel word that one has been accustomed to point the finger of scorn at. If you find Swift, Gray or other master employing a word that some picayune carper for verbal precision is trying to ostracize, you feel like associating with that word. Besides, some of these rude but healthy offshoots of the language are doing special duty and after proving their fitness for it will be just as fit for good verbal society as the rest.

What is the difference between an officer and an official? "Official" is nothing better than a lame cur of a word in the estimation of some people, but we are told now that it is perfectly proper, that it has its place; is, in fact, the square peg for the square hole. An "officer" is a man of recognized badges and known duties; an "official" is a man of more disguised and indefinite power. The work of society, the subdivision of labor, has been making this distinction, while you, in your ignorance, didn't know what was going on. An "officer" appears on parade ground or on deck in uniform; an "official" comes forth from a quiet office wearing a frock coat and top hat, and he can make you feel he is an official if you run up against that reserve power of which you see no outward manifestation in spurs or gold lace. General Miles is an "officer," John R. Rockefeller is an "official." Verbal purists should keep in mind the constant manufacture of distinctions that is going on.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

The Wolf Dog of the North.

Neck from head to shoulders a mass of bristling hair, sharp pointed ears, long snouted, lips snarling, fangs dripping, yelping rather than barking, wolfish of aspect and not nice to look upon when in anger—this is the husky, or wolf dog, of the north. Much has been said of the Klondike, but these magnificent brutes, which in the beginning made that frigid El Dorado possible, have received little more than passing comment.

They are far from humble, as their wild ancestry attests. They may be beaten into submission, but that will not prevent them still snarling their hatred. They may be starved into apparent docility and then die suddenly, with teeth fast locked in a brother's throat, torn to pieces by their comrades. Rather has little attention been accorded them because the interest of man has gravitated inexorably toward the natural, mineral and social features of that far northerly land.

But the husky is far from uninteresting. As a type of endurance no better product of natural selection need be sought. If ever a species has been born and bred of hard times, it has. Only the fittest in a hard struggle for existence extending through a thousand generations have survived. And they are well fit. Domesticated by the savage autochthons of that forbidding region, they may not only account their remote ancestors as wild wolves, but often their immediate forbears.—Harper's Weekly.

Society's Newest Toy.

The horseless carriage is society's newest toy. One secret of its success is its conspicuousness, for never was there such opportunity to sit up and look monarch of all creation as that front seat affords. Madame enthrones herself where the world may stare at her. Monsieur likewise feels the importance of his position and finds that steering a teakettle on rollers is more exhilarating than driving a $1,000 pair of trotters. For the time being the sensation has novelty to commend it, but of course this cannot last, and then it is wondered what will be the automobile's fate.—Boston Herald.

Loaded Cannon.

The city of St. Paul got one of the Spanish cannon captured in the war and set it up in front of the entrance to the city hall and courthouse. Later it was found to hold a charge of powder and ball, and, furthermore, it was trained at an angle that would plant the missile in the coping of a fine business block across the street. A number of these guns were given on application to cities in Pennsylvania, and at Bradford it was found upon examination that the gun was loaded. The shell was shot into an embankment and afterward dug out, as it did not explode.—Argonaut.

Rattlesnake Poison.

"Years ago, when I was a boy at home," said a southern man, "an uncle of mine, who lived near Montgomery, was out on his plantation one day when he saw an enormous rattlesnake stretched in a furrow of a cotton field. He seized a hoe lying near by and made a pass at the monster. At the same time it struck out at him and broke off one of its fangs on the edge of the hoe blade. My uncle dispatched the snake and then picked up the fang and brought it to the house as a curiosity. It was sharp as a needle, and a faint yellow stain at the tip showed where some of the virus had exuded.

"The bit of bone lay for at least three or four years in an ebony box on my uncle's writing table in his study, when one day a stupid negro servant girl, not knowing what it was, used it to extract a splinter from her thumb. In less than an hour her whole lower arm was swollen, and she exhibited all the characteristic symptoms of snake poison.

"My uncle had studied medicine and by prompt measures saved the girl's life, but for some mysterious reason gangrene subsequently appeared in her arm, and amputation was necessary. My uncle lost no time in burning his murderous relic."

Yes, August Flower still has the largest sale of any medicine in the civilized world. Your mothers and grandmothers never thought of using anything else for indigestion or biliousness. Doctors were scarce, and they seldom heard of appendicitis, nervous prostration or heart failure, etc. They used August Flower to clean out the system and stop fermentation of undigested food, regulate the action of the liver, stimulate the nervous and organic action of the system, and that is all they took when feeling dull and bad with headaches and othaches. You only need a few doses of Green's August Flower, in liquid form, to moke you satisfied there is nothing serious the matter with you. For sale by Grissom & Fordham.

A POISON TO FISH.

Pure Salt Will Bring Death to Creatures of the Sea.

That a marine creature can be poisoned with salt water seems a manifest absurdity, yet we are assured on the strength of very recent experiments that pure salt acts as a violent poison to fish and that it is only the other constituents of their native element that prevent its so acting in sea water. Says the Revue Generale des Sciences in an account of the experiments just mentioned:

"The innumerable animals that live in the sea are in permanent contact with strong salt water containing not exclusively, but chiefly, chloride of sodium. Many of them die in a few minutes when they are put into fresh water. Man adds to his food large proportions of this same salt and is incommoded if deprived of it. Sea salt thus seems to be of use to many living organisms and indispensable to some. M. Jacques Loeb announces very interesting experiments that prove that this chloride of sodium, when purified and freed from the other salts that accompany it in the sea, is a violent poison for sea creatures. Perhaps it might also be poisonous to man if he did not take into his system with his food and drink a certain quantity of potash and lime salts, which are its antidotes.

"Loeb takes small marine fish newly caught of the genus fundulus and puts them into a solution of pure sodium chloride containing the same proportion of this salt sea water. At the end of 12 hours all the fish are dead. If this salt solution be diluted with distilled water, the fish live longer, the length of time being in ratio to the extent of the dilution. They live indefinitely if they are put into sea water even if 5 per cent of pure chloride of sodium be added to it. The chloride of sodium must, then, act as a poison, but sea water must contain antidotes to it.

"Here are interesting facts whose theoretical importance is considerable. They show us very strikingly the part played by the mineral composition of the surrounding medium in vital phenomena. They reveal the unexpected fact that pure sodium chlorides is a poison, as are the chlorides of potassium and calcium, while the mixture of these three bodies in the proper proportions is, on the contrary, favorable to the preservation and development of certain living creatures.

"Loeb believes that the metallic ions of these salts form combinations with the proteid substances of the protoplasm; that these combinations are quite easily dissociable, so that in the presence of a pure salt, such as sodium chloride, the sodium ion takes the place in the protoplasm of the potassium, calcium and magnesium ions, giving compounds that are not capable of sustaining the life of the organism. These of course are but hypotheses. M. Loeb promises to establish their correctness by a series of experiments. His study of the toxicity of sodium chloride is the first of this promised series."

Black and Buchanan.

A document of some interest was entered for record at the Franklin (Pa.) county courthouse a few days ago. It is a deed conveying to Judge Jeremiah S. Black 240 acres of land near Mercerburg by President James Buchanan. The conveyance was made in June, 1863, after Mr. Buchanan had retired from office, together with Judge Black, who was in Buchanan's cabinet, first as attorney general and then as secretary of state.

The price paid for the land by Judge Black was $15,624. A story connected with this transfer of realty, says the Chambersburg (Pa.) Valley Spirit, showed the confidence that Judge Black had in Mr. Buchanan. The president wanted to sell the land to the judge, who said he would take it without seeing it. President Buchanan insisted, however, that he go to Franklin county and see the property. Judge Black went to Chambersburg and staid a few days with friends, after which he returned to his home at York and made the purchase without having seen the land.

Poor Lo Files a Kick.

Lo the poor Indian has refused to be counted by the census enumerator and has driven out the interrogatory white man with contumely and contempt. Of course they are all wrong, yet there is something after all of the idyllic in people who can live and enjoy life independent of statistics.—Baltimore American.

Sandalwood In Hawaii.

Professor Henshaw of Hilo has discovered a new growth of sandalwood trees, averaging ten feet in height, in the Olaa forests. It was supposed that this tree was extinct in the islands.—Hawaiian Star.

The Atmospheric Ocean.

The atmospheric ocean surrounding the earth is frequently disturbed by gigantic waves, which are invisible except when they carry parts of the air charged with moisture up into a colder atmospheric stratum, where sudden condensation occurs. In this manner long, parallel lines of clouds sometimes make their appearance at a great height, marking the crests of a ripple of air waves running miles above our heads.

Japanese Art.

The Japanese is a born lover of nature. Whatever he produces, from the most painstaking work of art to the simplest household utensil, is after natural models. In the representation of figures and scenes the Japanese display a perception which is astonishing. With a couple of strokes of the brush they reproduce what they see with a truth to life which is almos incredible.

ROBBED THE GRAVE.

A startling incident, of which Mr John Oliver, of Philadelphia, was the subject, is narrated by him as follows; "I was in a most dreadful condition tion. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides; no appetite—gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Fortunately, a friend advised trying Electric Bitters: and to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks and am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cents per bottle at C. E. Holton's drug store.

THIEF GRABBED $180 AND RAN.

AN ORANGE COUNTY MAN ROBBED.

W. V. Ruth the Victim—Sold a Lot of Timber and Carried the Proceeds Around in His Pocket — An Agreeable Stranger Wished a Bill Changed and Relieved the Orange County Man of His Honey—A Fruitless Search for the Thief.

On account of taking a stroll around town Saturday night, a gentleman from Orange county is minus $180 in cool cash. He is Mr. W. V. Ruth and resides near Hillsboro. Saturday he came to Greensboro and collected $165 from Mr. B. H. Merrimon for a quantity of hickory timber. Instead of depositing the money in a bank, he placed it, along with several other bills and some change, in his pocket book.

After supper Saturday evening Mr. Ruth took a stroll around town, intending to leave for home on the midnight train. When near the old C. F. & Y. V. depot he was approached by a stranger who asked him to change a five-dollar bill. Not suspecting anything wrong, Mr. Ruth took out his pocket book and was counting the change, when the stranger grabbed the money, amounting to $180, and ran.

It was all all done so suddenly that Mr. Ruth didn't have time to recover himself before the thief was out of sight. The robbery was committed in a rather isolated spot and was not witnessed by anyone.

The matter was not reported to the Chief of Police until yesterday morning, when a fruitless search was made for the daring thief. Mr. Ruth went over to Reidsville yesterday afternoon to cotinue the search, saying he would go from there to Durham and Burlington, returning to Greensboro this evening.

Mr. Ruth was able to give only a fairly good description of the thief He was shabbily dressed, having the appearance of a tramp. Chief Scott has wired a brief description of him to a number of cities.

An unknown Irishman was loafing around town last week, and as he has disappeared, it is thought that he was probably the thief. He was heard to say Saturday afternoon that he would leave Greensboro for Washington that night, beating his way on the train.
